

Introduction

Yemen is a country located in the Middle East bordering the Arabian Sea, Gulf of Aden, and the Red Sea. Yemen has a strategic location on the Bab el-Mandeb, the strait linking the Red Sea and the Gulf of Aden, one of the world's most active shipping lanes. Neighboring countries include Oman and Saudi Arabia. The government system is a republic; the chief of state is the president, and the head of government is the prime minister. Yemen has a mixed economy in which there is limited private freedom, but the economy remains highly controlled by the government. Yemen is a member of the League of Arab States (Arab League).

Risk Assessment (Provided by Coface)

Country rating: E - The highest-risk political and economic situation and the most difficult business environment. Corporate default is likely.

Business Climate rating: E - The highest possible risk in terms of business climate. Due to a lack of available financial information and an unpredictable legal system, doing business in this country is extremely difficult.

Strengths

- Large, though largely untapped, gas reserves, which could increase in production in the coming years
- Strategic position on the Bab el Mandeb Strait, at the threshold of the Red Sea

Weaknesses

- Civil war, accompanied by an economic and humanitarian crisis, and division of the country
- Extreme poverty: 80% of the population lives below the poverty line, making it the poorest country in the Arabian Peninsula and one of the poorest in the world
- Famine due to shortages of basic necessities
- Lack of infrastructure in the healthcare, education, and water sanitation sectors
- Water resources in short supply
- Net importer of energy
- Poor business climate (bureaucracy, corruption, destroyed or non-existent infrastructure)
